Dear Parents and Carers,

It is with great sadness that we have received the news of the death of Her Majesty The Queen. She served this country with a sense of duty and dignity for 70 years and we thank her for that.

Over the coming weeks our children will have many questions about The Queen and they will come to realise that they have lived through part of a reign which will be seen as immensely significant whenever the history of this nation is written.

During this period of national mourning, we will be limiting our communications. However, we will of course provide urgent and necessary updates as appropriate, and we encourage you to do the same.

Our thoughts and condolences are with her family.
